Title of the Best practice : Viksit Bharat Yathi
Parliament Election

In connection with the Viksit Bharat Yathi parliament election competition held at the district level on 4th march at Dr. B.R. Ambedkar University Srikrakulam, the department of political science organized an elocation competition on 4th march in the college. The topic for the elocation competition was '50 years of Emergency: Lessons for Indian democracy.' students actively participated and delivered insightful and thought provoking presentations highlighting the impact of the emergency, the importance of constitutional values, and the need to safeguard democratic institutions.

The competition aimed to enhance students awareness of India's political history, encourage critical thinking, and develop their public speaking skills. Faculty members evaluated the participants based on content, clarity, and presentation.

Among the participants S. Jhanvi and R. Chitra performed exceptionally well and were selected to represent the college at the state-level elocation competition. Their achievement brought pride to the department and reflected the academic excellence and active involvement of the students. The program was a great success, promoting awareness about democratic principles and inspiring students to actively engage in political and civic process.
